COOPER BUSSMANN AUTOMOTIVE PRODUCTS

ANNOUNCES NEW

REAR TERMINAL MINI-FUSE & RELAY

POWER DISTRIBUTION MODULE

Bussmann Automotive Products, a division of Cooper Industries, Wood Dale, Illinois, now has available is Series 15300 Power Distribution Module – the Rear Terminal Mini-Fuse & Relay (RTMR). The RTMR has a compact design that offers high component density and is versatile as either a primary or auxiliary power distribution unit. Built to survive in demanding environments, the RTMR is sealed and weather tight, suited for applications experiencing moisture and vibration.

Uniform component terminal spacing accepts standard 2.8mm wide terminal blades for all component connections. Connector points are arranged to accept standard components, including mini fuses, mini circuit breakers, diodes, flashers and/or mini or micro relays. The RTMR is offered in three configurations: 1) All fuses, 2) Fuses and mini (larger) Relays, 3) Fuses and Micro (smaller) Relays.

With component density up to 20 devices, the compact RTMR is an economical, ideal product for distributed power applications. Engineered to help reduce wiring expense, the RTMR can be either panel mounted or surface mounted, and uses the industry standard Series 280 Packard Metri-Pack™ 2.8mm. to connect to output wire. Initially designed for the marine and specialty vehicle manufacturers, it is also well suited for other transportation industry applications including: construction, agriculture, trucking and automotive.

Cooper Bussmann, a division of Cooper Industries, manufactures and markets circuit protection products for the electrical, electronic and automotive industries, domestically and internationally.
